Kaitlyn A. Cameron is an Associate at Fullerton Beck LLP, supporting the firm's appellate, general liability, medical malpractice, insurance coverage, and New York labor law practices. Kaitlyn recently graduated cum laude from the Elisabeth Haub School of Law at Pace University, where she was recognized for her academic achievements and her leadership as the Productions Editor of the Pace Environmental Law Review. Kaitlyn's career foundation was built through diverse internships and legal positions. She previously served as a Summer Associate at Fullerton Beck, gaining hands-on experience in case preparation, legal research, and motion drafting. Her earlier roles, including her internships at the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA) and Rogers, Habas & Eisen, P.C., further honed her legal skills, particularly in contract drafting, discovery review, and legal analyses. Her experience on the Pace Environmental Law Review helped refine her legal writing, editing, and analytical skills, enabling her to contribute meaningfully to complex legal documents and publications. Education Elizabeth Haub School of Law at Pace University, JD Iona College, BA
